Partneys' case still embattled

Judge asked to recant overrule of jury's verdict

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — A judge has been asked to recant his decision to overturn a jury's guilty verdict in the Partneys' case.

A motion filed by Assistant State's Attorney Rich Rybak on Thursday asks Madison County Associate Judge Lola Maddox to reconsider her decision to order a new trial for Don, Dave and Dan Partney.

A jury on Jan. 24 found the Partneys guilty of perjury based on charges Don and Dave Partney made false statements on affidavits concerning their place of residence in order to vote in the April 1989 election. Dan Partney was charged with making false statements in an affidavit supporting his brothers.

Don and Dave Partney were registered to vote at 2500 Missouri Ave., the address of the family business.

Rybak said Tuesday he believes Maddox "disregarded the law" in her June 18 decision and based her decision on "what she perceived as a difference between the (criminal and election) codes in statutes that are not significant enough to overturn a verdict."

In her ruling on a post-trial motion filed on behalf of the Partneys, Maddox said technical flaws in the original charges and

MEMBERS OF NEW SALEM Baptist Church march Saturday through Venice to urge the public to fight drug abuse and addiction.

200 join anti-drug march

By Pam Doeppke-Hurd
Staff writer

VENICE — Even though the temperature was in the high 90s Saturday afternoon, marchers in an anti-drug parade in Venice kept their cool by singing hymns, waving flags and carrying signs warning about drugs.

The group started from the New Salem Baptist Church on Klein Street at noon with 150 people and several decorated cars and trucks.

The Venice Fire Department along with the Venice Police Department led the way with city vehicles as the marchers left the church and proceeded along an unannounced parade route through neighborhoods in the area.

Participants handed out fliers on how to get help if an individual has a drug abuse problem, and invited people to join them in the parade.

The marchers received positive reactions from fellow Venice residents. When they stopped at the corner of Weaver and Douglas streets to hold an impromptu prayer and song meeting, one North Venice lady said, "I like what they are doing and I like it a lot."

Several people joined the marchers there, and the total grew to more than 200 by the time the group returned to the starting point at the church more than an hour later.

The Rev. John Henry Williams, New Salem pastor, said the effort was one of help and not one of condemnation. "We just want to help people — not get anybody arrested," he said.

Marchers said they were pleased by the friendly way they were greeted and the way their ranks increased during the afternoon.

Arson suspected; building may be torn down

GRANITE CITY — Arson is suspected as the cause of the June 24 blaze that destroyed several apartments and businesses at 19th Street and Delmar Avenue, but Fire Chief Jerry Wallace isn't ready to say for certain.

"Right now it looks like it might have been set. We've not made that determination, but it appears that way now," Wallace said the fire is still being investigated in a cooperative effort by his department, insurance investigator Bill Buxton and Det. Mike Murgic of the police department.

He said the next step will be to analyze lab results on evidence taken from the scene, but those results are not yet available.

Wallace said it took 10 of his firefighters roughly 12 hours just to dig out the scene.

"Trying to prove (an arson case) is quite difficult," he said. "It's possible to spend literally hundreds of hours on a case like this to no avail."

Meanwhile, there is growing concern about the safety of the building. A wall on the west side, adjacent to L&M Appliance, is bowed and may force eventual demolition, said Assistant Fire Chief Bob Bell.

"I'm sure that's going to be a determination of the insurance company. The chief seems to think there's some structural damage," Bell said. "After the investigation, the chief and I will proceed with actions to tear it down or fix it up ... in a timely fashion, not a year from now."

Building co-owner David Schermer of Granite City said Friday he had not yet heard from the insurance company, but suspects that the fire department's investigation will delay the process.

More unusual stories come out of local fire

GRANITE CITY — Junelda Kruzec has a lucky guinea pig. So lucky, in fact, that's what she now calls him, Lucky.

Kruzec owns the Second Time Around shop at the corner of 19th Street and Delmar Avenue. It was severely damaged by smoke and water in a massive fire Sunday, June 24.

She said the pet guinea pig remained in the building during the several hours that firefighters worked at the scene. The family renamed the animal, once called Kitty, to Lucky after it survived the blaze.

"The guinea pig lived, but my fish died," said Kruzec, who has relocated down the street to 1308 19th St. That building is owned by David Schermer, a local businessman who also co-owns with Thomas C. "Buz" York of Madison the building that burned.

The fire destroyed one other business, L&M Appliance, and 11 sleeping-room apartments located on the second floor, and it also threatened an entire city block. Work by firefighters pre-

Man arrested in rape case just paroled

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A city man recently paroled from a sex-crime sentence was charged Monday with aggravated criminal sexual assault in the alleged rape of a 12-year-old local girl.

Police allege that Robert J. ("Gismo") Champion, 21, raped the girl June 19 after meeting her two days earlier.

Detective Ned Tapp said Champion was paroled May 11 after serving 6½ years of a 10-year sentence in the Graham Correctional Center in Hillsboro, Ill., for rape.

Tapp said he wasn't sure of the exact circumstances of that crime. But, noting that Champion, then 15, had been tried as an adult in that case, he said, "It had to be some sort of heinous offense."

While being arraigned Monday before Associate Judge Robert Hennessey in the Circuit Court in Granite City, the handcuffed Champion escaped briefly. But he was captured minutes later behind Mercer Mortuary by Patrolman Mike Hill.

Hennessey set Champion's bond at $500,000 — an amount usually reserved for murder charges.

Assistant State's Attorney Kit Morrissey, who heads the county's sex crimes unit, was elated when she heard the high bond figure.

Champion was transferred Monday afternoon to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Reviews and previews

Study planned for high school

Plans for a new or renovated high school took a cautious step last week. The District 9 school board plans to hire an architectural firm to conduct a feasibility study to determine whether or not it would be more cost-effective to renovate the existing high school or build a new building. The board expects to hire a firm soon.

WIPE OUT: Justine Hutchings, 60, of the 2500 block of Cleveland Boulevard, looks at a bicycle belonging to Robert Mouldin, 30, of the 2500 block of Parview Drive which just collided with her car as Mouldin is attended to by Granite City paramedics. Mouldin was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment following the accident at 11:32 a.m. Saturday at the intersection of 21st Street and Delmar Avenue. No charges were filed in the accident.

Somebody turned on all six burners of a gas stove and set fire to a curtain during the night of June 29-30 in an unsuccessful arson attempt at Grace Baptist Church.

A church member discovered a broken window and a burned-up curtain in the basement of the building at about 7 a.m. and called police. After the building was aired out, it was discovered that two offices on the second floor had been ransacked.

Police believe the fire may have been set in an attempt to cover up the burglary.

Bigger lights for Illinois railroad crossings

Illinois Commerce Commission Chairman Terrence L. Barnich announced that on June 13 the commission entered an order which requires the remaining three rail carriers in Illinois to install 12-inch-diameter flashing light signals at 201 public grade crossings across the state.

The commission has already required all other rail carriers under its jurisdiction to install the 12-inch signals statewide.

The order directs the SPCL Corporation, the Gateway Western Railway Company and the Toledo, Peoria and Western Railway Company to begin work immediately and to complete the improvements within three years. The cost to install the 12-inch signals at the 201 crossings is estimated to be $1,316,382.

The Grade Crossing Protection Fund, administered by the commission, will pay for 90 percent, approximately $1.1 million, of the signal improvements on the local highway system, including crossings on township, road district, county highway and municipal street systems. The rail carriers will pay the remaining 10 percent, or about $129,392.

For crossings on state highway systems, the Illinois Department of Transportation will bear 90 percent of the cost, about $200,219, with the rail carriers picking up the remaining 10 percent, about $22,246.

Barnich said, "It is my hope that completion of this statewide signal improvement program will lead to a reduction in accidents and fatalities at railroad crossings in Illinois. Expenditures from the Grade Crossing Protection Fund for these improvements are definitely money well spent."

This order is the fifth and final order in a series of interim orders that the commission has issued in this case over the past three years.

Included are 3,354 public railroad grade crossings across the state.

Bus routes adjusted

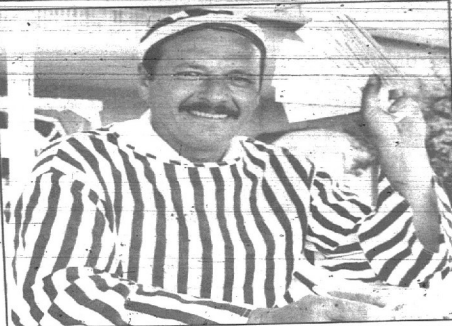

The East St. Louis-Belleville Express was canceled June 11, a spokesman for the Bi-State Development Agency said. The line was given a six-month trial but will not be added to Bi-State's regular Illinois bus service because ridership was too low.

Minor changes, principally elimination of weekday school trips and schedule adjustments, affected these routes: Collinsville-Edwardsville, O'Fallon, Missouri Avenue-MLK, Belleville-St. Louis, BAC-Westfield (Red Line), Washington Park, Alta Vista, 20th & Central, Waterloo-St. Louis Express, Pontoon Express, South Belt Express and Belleville-St. Louis Express.

For route and schedule information, Bi-State Transit Information can be called weekdays from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. at 1-800-223-BUS.

Agnes Roderick marks 97th year

A family celebration was hosted by Ron and Brenda Roderick in honor of Agnes Roderick, his grandmother, who was observing her 97th birthday on Saturday, June 23.

The event was held at the family's original restaurant located at 2723 East 24th Street in Granite City.

Attending the party were five generations of family members, who live in the local area, and several from out-of-town who came here for the celebration.

In addition to his grandmother, Ron's wife and mother were also celebrating birthdays. The honorees were presented with corsages and a buffet dinner was enjoyed by all.

Also the center of attention at the celebration was the newest member of the Roderick family, Nicholas, son of Cindy and Mark Roderick.

Nicholas is the great-great-grandson of Agnes Roderick.

"We are pleased to have agreed upon this transaction with Mr. Ingersoll, as it will enable our affiliates to use their resources to improve and expand the operations of INI and New Haven." The Warburg Pincus affiliates which will own INI and New Haven have equal capital of more than $3 billion.

Mr. Pincus stated further that he hoped that CNI, which announced Monday it would make the interest payment due on its 13 percent Senior Subordinated Reset Notes, would be able to work out its financial problems with the holders of its subordinated indebtedness. Negotiations on these matters with representatives of the subordinated debt holders have been in progress for several months.

Mr. Pincus added that "the excellent present operating management of INI, New Haven and CNI will continue under the leadership of Robert M. Jenic, who is currently president of the United States and will succeed Mr. Ingersoll as chief executive officer."

Mr. Pincus concluded, "We are saddened that our long partnership with Ralph Ingersoll has come to an end. The ventures in which we participated together in the United States and Europe. Mr. Ingersoll is a man of enormous vision and great talent, and we believe his part will be to have been able to build together what he is located."

In a statement, Mr. Ingersoll said: "We are proud of what we have been able to build together vented escalation of the destruction, according to those who watched their efforts.

Bob Webb, co-owner of a business located behind the burning building, had nothing but praise for firefighters. "I saw how much hard work and sweat went into it (fighting the fire)," he said. "The smoke was heavy but they kept going in and out for hours."

Webb feared his business, Sawdust Junction, 1204 Niedringhaus Ave., was also at risk of going up in flames. "I want to thank all the strangers and friends that helped us evacuate," he said.

Webb had a bird's eye view of the firefighters, as he watched from a rooftop room above his business. "You wouldn't have believed it," he said admiringly. "Another unusual story came out of the fire. in the jury's instructions concerning the law under which the Partneys were charged could have confused the jury.

Rybak, who said after Maddox's decision that the case would be appealed to the Fifth Appellate Court in Missouri, said an appeal is still possible.

"We are just trying to give the judge an opportunity to correct what we believe is an obvious error rather than go through the trouble of an appeal process," Rybak said.

No matter what happens, Rybak said, the case will not just disappear. He said the judge may reconsider, the case may be appealed or it may return to with Warburg, Pincus & Co., who have been excellent partners. I am particularly pleased that Robert Jenic will remain as president and succeed me as chief executive. He is an extraordinarily gifted newspaper publisher who has assembled an exceptional team of executives both in Princeton (N.J.) and at each of the American newspapers. I wish Bob, his family and Warburg, Pincus continued success."

"For my part, I look forward with great enthusiasm to expanding our publishing interests in the European Community."

Mr. Jenic said he was pleased to be heading the new operations affiliate of Warburg, Pincus. He described Warburg, Pincus as not only a major publishing organization but also a financially sound operating company as well.

He said Warburg, Pincus had a major operating position in both the Melton Banks and Matel Inc., the toy maker. The acquisition of the former Ingersoll American properties will make Warburg, Pincus a major player in the newspaper publishing business as well, Mr. Jenic said.

Tom E. Rice, president of Sunrise Industries, Inc., the St. Louis subsidiary which operates the Suburban Journals and The Telegraph, said there would be no major changes in the operations of the St. Louis area newspapers.

Mr. Rice said, "Sunrise Industries is on track for a record year in 1990 and we are looking forward to the continued growth of both the Journals and The Telegraph."

According to Executive Director Ron Streiter, the Red Cross has already assisted 13 families that were fire victims, 10 families from the building that burned and three families from an adjacent building that suffered smoke and water damage. The Red Cross is located at 1907 Delmar Ave., next to the burned building. It, too, suffered smoke and water damage and must be cleaned.

"The local chapter has already committed to $3,500 in assistance, and the amount will probably go to $4,500 to $5,000," Streiter said.

Assistance included relocation, shelter, clothing and food. Streiter said donations either for family victims or for the office would be appreciated. They can be mailed to the Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross, 1907 Delmar, Granite City, Ill. 62040, and earmarked for disaster victims or for the Red Cross office.

"But whatever it takes, it will be resolved," Rybak said. Leon Scroggins, an attorney who represented the Partneys at the trial, said he had just received Rybak's motion and had not had time to fashion a response. Bill Lucco, who with Scroggins represented the Partneys at a post-trial hearing, could not be reached for comment.

Triplets hammer way into tournament semifinals

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — It's obvious the Triplets didn't want to be embarrassed on their home field.

As one of the hosts of the 20-team Tournament of Champions, Post 113 played the part of the ungracious hosts by rolling into the tournament semifinals in impressive fashion. Catcher Joe Wallace homered in the first inning of three straight games as the Triplets clinched the A Flight of the tournament with a 6-2 win over Smithton on Sunday night.

Post 113 was to play in the semifinals at 11 a.m. Tuesday against the B Flight winner. The championship game was scheduled to start at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Varsity Field.

"We finally decided to come out and be a good team," said Triplets manager Ralph Burnett. "This is how good a team we can be."

Although the win over Smithton was the clincher, the highlight of the weekend was a 10-4 win over Evansville (Ind.) on Saturday night. Evansville came in with one of the top-ranked Legion teams in the country and a 37-2 record. Starting pitcher Jonathan Wiggins had won his last 27 decisions.

But Ryan Reeves singled and Wallace took a Wiggins fast ball out of sight for a quick 2-0 lead. Wallace added two more hits and another RBI while Rich Schardan delivered a two-run double in the sixth and Chad Lignoul had three hits. Post 113 totalled 12 hits. It was 6-0 before Matthew Collins hit a three-run homer off Tom Senczyn in the fifth, but Chris Hill pitched the final 1 1/2 innings.

"That might have been the best game a team of mine has ever played," said Burnett. "Our guys had heard a lot about Evansville and they saw how they came in here. They were very impressive taking infield and the way they carried themselves. But we took it to them. The game wasn't even as close as the score. They had one three-run homer, but we came right back after that with three runs of our own."

Senczyn took a no-hitter into the fifth, although he walked six and hit two. Mike Nordstrom and Reeves also made spectacular defensive plays as the Triplets seemed as fired up and ready to play as they have ever been.

Triplet pitching was spectacular all weekend. Schardan started things off with a two-hit 9-0 shutout of Fairfield on Saturday (See LEGION, PAGE 6B)

Miners outslugged by Waterloo; play Lakers today for third place

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

VALMEYER — Clay Moehrs made his father a proud man on Sunday.

Moehrs, whose father Vern manages the Waterloo Buds, belted a three-run homer off Scott LeVault in the bottom of the ninth to give the Buds an exciting 12-9 victory over the Miners in the Valmeyer Fourth of July Tournament semifinals.

The victory vaults Waterloo into the championship game for the first time since 1987. The Buds (17-6) will take on Sauget today for the title at 3:30 p.m. The Miners (16-6) will play Valmeyer for third place at 12:30 today.

"This is the greatest moment of my life," said Clay Moehrs.

"I was a little nervous stepping to the plate, but I just wanted to make contact. I wasn't even thinking about hitting a home run, but that's what usually happens when you're not thinking about hitting the long ball."

Moehrs' blast was the ninth home run of the game — five by Waterloo and four by the Miners — and it capped off a tremendous comeback for the Buds. With runners at first and third with only one out, Vern Moehrs elected to have his son swing away instead of executing the bunt.

"In that situation, everybody is expecting the squeeze play," said Vern Moehrs. "But we've lived by the long ball all season, so why change now? I just decided to let Clay swing the bat. That philosophy has won 17 games for us this season."

The home run was only the third for Clay Moehrs this sea-

"That makes it even more special," said Clay Moehrs. "We've been fortunate to hit the long ball this season and it's given us the confidence to come back in the late innings. Sure, we were concerned about being behind, but everyone in the dug-out knew we could pull this game out."

Robertson's HR sends Optimists into finals

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

WATERLOO — The Jay Robertson Show earned rave reviews as his double feature of offensive and defensive heroics put the Optimists into the Waterloo Fourth of July Tournament finals.

Robertson's 370-foot home run to right-center in the top of the eighth gave Granite City a 6-5 win over Waterloo on Sunday in the semifinals. The Optimists will play O'Fallon for the championship Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. at the Waterloo Park District Field.

Brian Tieman hung on to the lead in the bottom of the eighth with some help from Robertson at shortstop.

"Jay made some major league-type plays at short," said Optimists manager Paul Kacera. "He went behind the bag three times to throw guys out and then he made a big play in the eighth to end their rally."

The Optimists, 11-2 and winners of 11 in a row, took a 5-0 lead in the second as Dan Askins had a two-run double and Chris Hildreth (5 for 3 in a first-round 11-6 win over Ellisville on Satur-

"I've been pleased with the way Danny and Chris have been hitting the ball," Kacera said. "Chris went 5 for 5 against Ellisville and Danny has gone on a tear recently. Our bats have come alive and that is one of the main reasons we've been winning."

Waterloo would not go quietly as it scored three in the fourth off starter Chris Sturdivant — who went 4 1/3 innings — and two

A Step-By-Step Guide to Your New Pay-Per-Call Rate Plan.

It's July. And that means Illinois Bell's new rate plan is beginning to take effect. Here's what it means to you:

1. The new plan will be taking effect with your July billing date. You can find this date on the first page of your phone bill. For example, if you have a billing date of July 1, that's when your new plan starts. Or, if your billing date isn't until July 28, your new rate plan won't be starting until then.
2. Under the new plan you'll be paying only for the calls you make. Residence customers will pay between 3.4 and 5.6 cents for calls made within your local calling area, no matter how long your call lasts.
3. If you're a business customer, you'll be charged 4.3 cents for the first minute and only a penny for each additional minute on local calls. So the average business call, which lasts about three minutes, will cost about six cents.
4. Rates for calls outside your new local calling area will be reduced by more than 50% for both residence and business customers. (Residence calls outside your local calling area and all business calls are billed in one-minute increments. Partial minutes are rounded to the next full minute.)
5. The rates are even lower for the calls you make at night or on weekends, and new discounts will be applied to your bill based on volume of calls.

Together these steps will be lowering the monthly phone bills of more than 60% of Illinois Bell residence customers and 70% of Illinois Bell business customers. If you have any questions about the new pay-per-call rate plan or the date it takes effect for you, please call us at 1-800-526-8408. Business customers call 1-800-435-2200.

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Doug Buehrer is a chip off the old block.

Buehrer has been listening to his father Dave's advice on bowling for the last 14 years and the dividends have paid off in a big way. That advice really came to the forefront for the 17-year-old on June 4 in the Major Division (ages 15-21) at Bowling, when Doug had a 299 game and an 805 series.

"My dad has really helped me with my game," said Buehrer. "He's an excellent coach. He's capable of seeing out my mistakes and helping me to correct them. My father has a keen eye for the game."

Dave Buehrer was a bowler for many years, but he was forced to give it up following a bout with polio and arthritis. Yet, his ambition to see his son succeed never ceased.

"We get along most of the time," said Doug. "He's always telling me what I did wrong and how to correct it. But sometimes we can't communicate. It all depends on how I'm doing at the time. I don't like to talk about my mistakes right after they happen. I just need time to calm down, but I take his advice to heart when he talks to me later on."

Doug is a finesse bowler who has experienced a great deal of success on the lanes.

"I don't throw the ball that hard," he said. "I use a curve, but it only breaks a little bit. It's brought me many good moments, but my game has dropped off a bit in the last year.

"You could say I've gone downhill. It's taken me a while to get back into the groove, but I'm slowly getting there. I'm just trying to stand on my own two feet, so I've pulled away from dad's advice and it's hurt my game.

"I love him and he knows it, but I'm just trying to make it on my own. Unfortunately, I'm not doing as well. Despite my stubbornness, he'll always be there for me to lend a hand. No matter what, my dad always takes time out for me."

Moyer takes Miller Genuine Draft event

By Steve Birmingham
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — Billy Moyer of Batesville, Ark., continued his mastery of Tri-City Speedway, dominating last Wednesday's Miller Genuine Draft U.M.P. Late Models and waiting to his second win in three tries.

Cruising to a half-lap lead over the second-place finisher, Moyer collected $3000 for his efforts.

"Half a lap," Moyer said, after the victory. "I didn't know we had that much room over those guys. The competition is getting tougher and tougher each time we come here, though."

Starting in sixth position, Moyer steadily gained an early lead over Steve Francis, and the two duelled for several laps in a dead heat for the lead. Moyer was able to wrest the point from Francis on the main straightaway took off, never looking back.

"We just put a lot of effort into what we do," Moyer said, thanking his crew. "There's no drinking or hosting or chasing women for us. We just dedicate ourselves to this and it pays off. This is a brand-new car and it's the first night out for it. The motor wasn't up to par, but the chassis was just right."

Following second-place finisher Francis at the checkers were Tom Helfrich, Jim Leka and Roger Long. Three heat races were run to qualify the 20 starters for the feature, with Bob Pierce, Francis and Kevin Claycomb the winners. Ray Godsey shared the semi-feature.

In the 25 lap U.M.P. Economy Model feature, Mike Young out-raced Don Carter to the flag after battling Carter and three others the entire distance. Dan Connover, Ron Sals and Randy Korte followed. Taking the heats were Young and Danny Hayes.

In Street Stock action, Dave Jones fought off a hard-charging Don McElroy Jr. for 20 laps to grab the win in that division's headliner. Following the two leaders across the stripe were Tom Ratajczyk, Jim Lafferty and Dave Wilbert. Jones and McElroy also won their heats. More than 3,000 fans were on hand to welcome 1989 NASCAR Winston Cup Champion Rusty Wallace back home. Wallace, a native St. Louisian, served as Grand Marshall for the evening, greeting fans and signing autographs for six hours before and after the action.

The point
where many of today's cars
run out of gas.

It happens so much sooner than you would think. At around 15,000 miles, the engines in many of today's cars start suffering from octane starvation. They simply lose their oomph. They get sluggish, unresponsive.

HAS IT HAPPENED TO YOU?

Sometimes it's hard to tell because it's a gradual process and different for every car. It can depend on the type of driving you do, the kind of engine your car has, and the gasoline you've been burning. There are, however, several signals your engine sends that can act as a warning.

KNOCK, KNOCK, WHO'S THERE?

One of the most noticeable signs is engine knock. You press down on your accelerator, and instead of a smooth purr, you hear a kup-kata-kup-kata coming from your engine. "Who's there," is an ineffective mixture of gasoline vapor and air that's simply not cooperating with your spark plugs. The mixture that provides the power to move your pistons up and down has been crippled by engine deposits. Only a portion of it is igniting... what's left holds back, then explodes in protest. That's what you hear. Even turning up the radio won't make it go away. But it's easily fixable.

KNOCK SENSORS HIDE THE PROBLEM, BUT DON'T SOLVE IT.

Many of today's engines are equipped with knock sensors that mechanically retard the spark so that knocking doesn't occur. But that really doesn't fix anything. Because the spark is retarded, acceleration wanes, power is lost. The only way to detect this phenomenon is to remember what happened when you pressed the accelerator to the floor when your car was brand new. If you have 15,000 miles on the odometer, and you feel a sluggishness that didn't occur in the earlier days of your car's life, you've got a problem. Again...easily solved.

THE KEY'S OFF, BUT THE CAR'S STILL RUNNING.

Engine run-on. Another sign of trouble. You turn off the ignition, but your engine keeps chugging along. Not quite as embarrassing as, say, an unexpected burp in church, but not exactly comforting either. What's happened is a bunch of carbon deposits have been building up in your cylinders during the first 15,000 miles of your engine's life. Even though your ignition is off, these nasty deposits retain engine heat and glow red hot to create a false spark that ignites the air/fuel mixture left in your cylinders. You're continuing to burn fuel, even though you're not going anywhere. It's easy to correct.

LOOK FOR THE SILVER LINING.

The solution to all these troublesome glitches exists today in a remarkable engine cleaning gasoline called Amoco® Silver. Amoco Silver is the sensible remedy for problems caused by your engine's increased craving for octane. Amoco Silver is a step up from pure regular unleaded gasoline. Its higher octane can eliminate knock, run-on and bring back the power that was there when your car was brand new. And since your engine's octane appetite stabilizes at around 15,000 miles, it may be all you'll ever need to keep your car's engine running the way it was designed to run. Amoco Silver. It's that simple.

afternoon. He and Wallace also blasted two-run homers in that game while Mike Nordstrom added two hits.

Then Brian Harshany struck out nine and allowed five hits in the win over Smithton on Sunday. The game, set for 8 p.m., didn't start until 9:15 because Smithton lost 10-5 to Evansville in a game played in Highland at 5 p.m.

But the Triplets wasted little time once it started, roughing up Smithton starter Clint Bickett for five runs in the first, including another two-run homer by Wallace, his third of the tournament and sixth of the summer. Nordstrom singled in another and Kurt Hodges added a two-run double. Harshany didn't give up a hit until the fourth, when Schardan pitched no-hit ball for five innings Saturday. In the first three games, Post 113 pitching allowed only 10 hits. Meanwhile, Granite City banged out 29 of its own and were very anxious to bat.

"We volunteered to be the visitors tonight (Sunday)," said coach Tom Hennrich. "The guys couldn't wait to get the bats in their hands. This team is fired up like I've never seen them before."

"We had plenty of time to talk before this game," said Burnett. "Chad Lignoni came up and asked if we won the coin toss if we could bat first. We're doing it up and down the lineup. Joe is red hot, but you can't say he's carrying this team. Mike Nordstrom really helps with his enthusiasm."

"And you can't ask for better pitching than we've had. I know the other teams are probably crying about not having enough pitching. But we're in great shape for the finals."

Burnett said Schardan would probably start the semifinal game and Senecyn would be ready for either the third-place or title game, with Hill ready in relief.

"Everything's going pretty good so far," Burnett said. "The crowds could be better, but I'm glad some of these young kids came out this weekend. To see our players hustle and play hard like they did should make the little kids feel like they want to play baseball for Granite City."

•Miners

Granite City started fast. The Miners, thanks to three-run homer by John Moad, led 5-1 after three innings. But the Buds kept chipping away. Waterloo cut the deficit to 6-5 in the third before solo home runs by Todd Hinterser and Tom Greco gave the Miners an 8-5 cushion. But the Buds answered with a pair of salvos in the seventh solo shots by Jim Wahlig and John Baxmeyer — to make it 8-7.

A home run by Mike Robertson gave Granite City a 9-7 lead in the top of the eighth, but a two-run shot by John Wahlig in the bottom of the inning tied things up. That set the stage for Waterloo after winning pitcher Kirby Brewer set the side down in order in the top of the ninth. The Miners were left licking their wounds. It was a tough loss to take, especially after they blew a four-run lead.

"There just aren't enough runs to win at this ball park," said player/manager Darren DePew. "This was a game we should have won, but their biggest weapon, the long ball — pulled it out in the end. I probably stayed with Scott a little longer than I wanted to, so it's just as much my fault we lost the game."

Mark Begando started for Granite City, and LeVault came on in relief in the fifth inning. The Miners blasted East Alton 13-2 in the first round on Saturday. Robertson had a home run as Granite City routed Silver Bullet starter Brian "Pick" Clawson, last year's tournament MVP. East Alton had a 2-0 lead, but the Miners scored four in the third and eight in the fifth and won in six innings. Darin Hendrickson got the win and Moad pitched the last inning.

off Tieman for a 5-5 tie in the seventh. But after Robertson's homer, Waterloo had two on the eighth when Robertson made his final outstaying play.

Dave Boley got the win in Saturday's game as the Optimists collected 13 hits, although they trailed 6-5 midway through the game.

Today's game with O'Fallon will be a preview of the teams' first-place showdown Saturday in O'Fallon. Both teams are 7-0 in Division II of the Southwest Baseball Association.

"I haven't had a chance to see them yet, but the coaches I have spoken with have said that we have the better ballclub," said Kacera. "I guess we'll find out Wednesday."

FIRE UP THE GRILL and get ready for a sassy meal of Southwestern Beef Tip Roast and Grilled Cinnamon Sweet Potatoes.

Doctor finds cravings develop for sweets or greasy foods

In his book "Anti-Craving Weight Loss Diet," Dr. Elliot D. Abravanel tells that understanding a craving can help win the battle of the bulge.

He sees people craving basically two types of food—sweet or greasy. The reason for the craving is not a desire for a certain food, but rather the real feeling the food elicits, he said. It will enhance a good mood for a short time.

"The foods a person craves actually act like a drug to change your brain function and they actually make you feel better," Abravanel said. "A state of euphoria results. Even bad imitations of the food engage reward circuits. They are different, but they mimic them, such as when bad frozen pizza is eaten instead of real Italian pizza."

His dieters learn to balance tastes by finding natural foods that fulfill the cravings. They also put off eating craved foods with a goal of not needing them at the end of a self-imposed time period.

Flavors shout for joy on grilled beef roast

Versatility comes in many shapes and sizes. There is a basic black dress, an indoor swimming pool, cross training shoes or a strand of pearls.

For eating style, there is beef sirloin, a versatile and widely appealing cut of beef any time of the year.

This piece of meat can be cut for steak, roast or kabobs. Another appealing asset is that a 3-ounce cooked, trimmed portion weighs in at a light and lean 177 calories. A flavorful and juicy cut of beef sirloin can be broiled, panbroiled, stir-fried or cooked on a backyard barbecue grill where it is receptive to a charcoal flavor.

Using the Southwest for a lively influence, this beef tip roast is flavored with a dry rub, a secret weapon that involves a mix of spices on the surface of the meat just before cooking. Here it is a moderately sassy blend of chili powder, cumin, brown sugar and cinnamon—a hot-sweet combination that mingles with the smoky taste of the charcoal grill.

Sweet potatoes also cook easily and effortlessly on a grill. A dash of cinnamon and butter enhances their naturally sweet flavor.

Southwestern beef tip roast

- 2 lb. tip roast (bottom sirloin)
- 2 tbsp. minced onion
- 1 tbsp. light brown sugar
- 2 tsp. pepper sauce
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1/2 tsp. cumin
- Pinch cinnamon

Combine onion, brown sugar, pepper sauce, chili powder, cumin and cinnamon. Spread evenly over surface of meat.

Place on grid over medium coals. Grill 30 to 35 minutes, turning frequently. Roast will be rare to medium in doneness.

Grilled cinnamon sweet potatoes

- 4 medium (about 6 oz. each) sweet

- potatoes
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
- Pinch cinnamon
- Salt, if desired

Peel sweet potatoes. Cut crosswise in 3/4- to 1-inch thick slices. Combine butter and cinnamon.

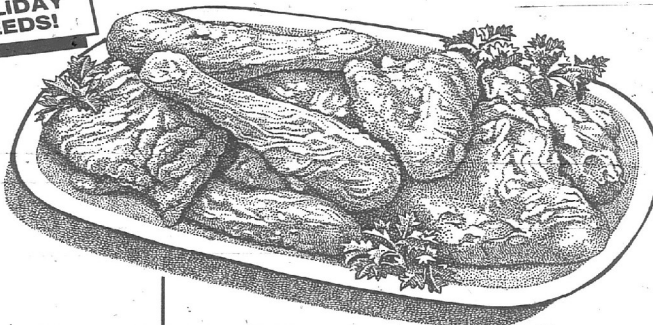

Place potatoes on grid with roast during last 15 to 20 minutes of grilling. Lightly brush potatoes with cinnamon butter. Grill until potatoes are tender, turning frequently.

Remove roast and potatoes from grill. Allow roast to stand tented with foil 10 minutes for easier carving.

Toss potatoes with remaining cinnamon butter. Keep warm. Carve roast across grain in thin slices. Serve with potatoes.

Fruit pies tickle sweet tooth with enticement

This summer give old stand-bys an updated twist using fresh nectarines. Turn pure and simple cream into a luscious pie filling. Nectarines are slightly firmer and spicier than their peach cousins, providing a perfect balance of taste and texture in a cool, creamy pie.

Keep the kitchen cool with no-bake Coconut Nectarine Cream Pie. Choose nectarines with varying amounts of red blush to present a colorful top in a starburst fashion.

Nectarine Ice Cream Pie—With Plum Sauce is a finale that features a surprise in every spoonful. Add shredded coconut to the buttery crust and freeze until firm. Spike the vanilla ice cream base with pureed ripe nectarines and orange liqueur. If desired, serve with a sweet-tangy plum sauce, using crimson or purple-skinned plums for an attractive color contrast.

Tropical nectarine pie with plum sauce

- 2 cups shredded coconut
- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- 1/2 cup flour
- 4 fresh nectarines, sliced
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tsp. orange zest
- 4 tsp. orange liqueur
- 1 qt. vanilla ice cream
- 6 fresh plums, cut up

Combine coconut, butter and flour. Press on bottom and side of greased 9-inch pie plate, forming ridge around top. Bake in 350° oven 12 to 15 minutes until golden brown. Place in freezer to cool completely before filling. For filling, puree nectarines, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon orange zest and 2 tablespoons liqueur in food processor or blender. Combine with ice cream. Pour into crust. Freeze until firm.

Puree plums. Cook with 3/4 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons orange zest over medium heat 12 to 15 minutes until syrupy. Stir in 2 tablespoons liqueur. Chill.

To serve, garnish top of pie with sliced fresh nectarines. Cut in wedges. Serve with Plum Sauce.

Makes 8 servings.

Microwave coconut nectarine cream pie

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 tsp. cornstarch
- 1 1/2 cups low-fat milk
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1/2 cup plain nonfat yogurt
- 1/2 cup toasted shredded coconut (See Note)
- 2 fresh nectarines, sliced
- 1 prepackaged 9-inch no-bake graham cracker crust

In 1-quart glass bowl, combine sugar, cornstarch and milk. Microwave on high about 4 minutes until mixture comes to boil and thickens, stirring after 2 minutes.

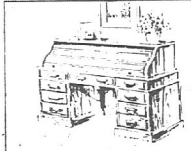

In small bowl, beat egg yolks. Beat in some hot mixture. Pour egg back into hot mixture, stirring constantly. Microwave on high 1 minute. Add vanilla. Let cool 20 minutes. Add yogurt and 1/4 cup coconut.

Reserve 6 nectarine slices for garnish.

Place remaining nectarines on crust, starburst-fashion. Spoon filling over nectarines. Garnish with reserved slices. Sprinkle outside edge with remaining coconut.

Noise - A Hazard To Your Hearing Health

Q. With all this noise going on—city traffic, jet airplanes, rock music—is there something I should be doing to protect my hearing?
A. Yes. For one, limit the time you are exposed to loud noise. According to the U.S. Government's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), the maximum safe exposure time at 90 decibels is eight hours; at 115 decibels it's only 15 minutes.

If you work in an environment where high noise levels exist, such as a factory, obey company regulations requiring earplugs and earmuffs. These can block sound up to 25 decibels.

And, as with most things, common sense is the best rule to follow. If you are saying over the noise, it may be dangerously loud. Likewise, if the noise leaves the ear ringing or feeling full then the sound level is probably high enough to cause permanent hearing damage. The same thing holds true for teenagers listening to loud music—moderation should be the rule.

If you think you or someone you know may have impaired hearing, plan to get a hearing test. It takes only 30 minutes and is offered as a free service by your local Belmont Hearing Aid Center at:

Grandson in Air Force graduation

Granite City residents Mr. and Mrs. Wendell McIlvoy have returned from Colorado Springs where they attended the graduation of their grandson, Keith McIlvoy, 22, from the Air Force Academy.

An aunt, Helen Urban, also of Granite City, attended.

Keith's father, Col. David McIlvoy, served to swear him in as a second lieutenant. His mother, Leanna (Palsgrove) McIlvoy, and his fiancée, Michelle Carney, pinned on his bars. Both parents attended Granite City schools.

The activities attended were the baccalaureate Mass at the chapel and a tour of The Carlton House where the Academy's superintendent lives. The Department of the Interior placed The Carlton House on the National Register of Historic Places recently.

The graduation ball and buffet, with a Mardi Gras theme, was a highlight of the trip and, of course, the graduation ceremony itself at Falcon Stadium.

There were 990 cadets who graduated. After the graduation, the Thunderbirds, the Air Force's precision flying team, performed. Air Force Chief of Staff, General Larry Welch, addressed the 32nd graduating class.

Keith McIlvoy

Keith will be going to Reese Air Force Base at Lubbock, Texas. He will be in pilot training for one year.

Cataract surgery improved

GRANITE CITY — For some people with cataracts, surgery can mean a whole month of restrictions, no exercise, no driving, no reading.

But all that is changing. A growing number of ophthalmologists are switching to a new small-incision procedure, called phacoemulsification, that enables cataract patients to resume their active lifestyles just one week after surgery.

"With phaco," patients see better, faster," said Dr. Edward Doisy, a Granite City ophthalmologist who recently switched to phacoemulsification. "Because of the smaller incision" required, it is safe for patients to resume their normal activities very quickly," said Doisy, who treats about 100 patients weekly at Illinois Eye Specialists in Granite City and Maryville.

Cataracts are caused by a clouding of the eye's natural lens, usually as a result of aging.

Cataracts don't usually harm the eyes, but they can limit a person's freedom. A person with advanced cataracts may feel that he or she is looking through a veil. Driving at night may be impossible because oncoming lights appear blindingly bright and are surrounded by large halos.

The treatment for cataracts is to remove the clouded lens surgically and replace it with an artificial lens implant.

In traditional treatment, the surgeon makes a 10 millimeter incision (about one-third of an inch) and removes the natural lens.

Phacoemulsification requires a much smaller incision — only three millimeters long. The ophthalmologist inserts the tip of an ultrasonic probe through the incision. The needle vibrates back and forth 20,000 times each second to break up the lens while a gentle vacuum removes the microscopic pieces.

Then the ophthalmologist extends the incision slightly and implants the artificial lens. The extended incision is still 40 percent smaller than it would be in traditional surgery.

For the patient, that translates into less trauma to the eye and, as a result, much faster recovery.

"To me, this surgery was better and I healed more quickly," said Nancy Harrell of Granite City. Two years ago, Dr. Doisy removed a cataract in her left eye with extracapsular surgery. In February, he used phacoemulsification to remove a cataract in the right eye.

"The first time, it took six or seven weeks before they said it was healed," Harrell said. "This time, after seven days, I was doing just fine."

Currently, about 20 percent of ophthalmologists are using phacoemulsification.

The surgeons are impressed by faster healing times, the availability of smaller implant lenses, which can fit through 3-4 millimeter incisions, and the new generation of phacoemulsification equipment that is available now.

The trend is definitely toward phacoemulsification, especially with the better, safer phacomulsification systems that are on the market today," Doisy said.

He is one of the first ophthalmologists in the St. Louis area to use "Premiere," one of the most advanced phacoemulsification systems available. His partner, Dr. Donald Schnellmann, also is learning to use the system.

Both St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City and Anderson Hospital in Maryville — Doisy and Schnellmann both perform surgery at both sites — have acquired the "Premiere" system for performing phacoemulsification.

New chairman for Holy Family PSA

Dorothy Ronk, retiring chairman of the Parish School Association (PSA) of Holy Family School, relinquished the gavel to Nancy Kellahan, who will serve as chairman during the 1990-91 school year.

The transfer of office took place at the group's first session of the 1989-90 school year held in the school cafeteria.

Also assuming office for the coming year were Rosa Santini, chairman-elect; Diane and Roger McFain, recording secretaries; Julie Gulash, corresponding secretary; and Judine Lux, treasurer.

Two departing teachers, Dan Vizer and Karen Juedeker, were recognized, as was the hiring of Kathryn Webb as a sixth grade teacher.

Sister M. Angeline gave the principal's report and the Rev. Tom Wise presented the pastor's report in the absence of the Rev. William Fisherkeller.

Entertainment was provided by the winners of the school's talent show and speech contest.

Refreshments were served by the PSA officers to conclude the evening.

Accepting on behalf of the DARE Committee are Dr. John Vasiloff, treasurer, left, Monroe Worthen and Judy Whitaker, co-chairmen. DARE, a not-for-profit organization, provides a DARE police officer for Granite City elementary schools. DARE's goal is to prepare students to resist the pressures of drug use facing children in today's environment.

GCHS honor students announced

Granite City High School has announced students who have made the high honor roll (5.000 or above) and the honor roll (4.200 to 4.999).

In both categories, the student must have the required grade-point average without a "D," and earned at least two credits during the semester.

Students are listed by alphabetical order, not grade level.

Former resident honored in Omaha

Barbara Libby Davis, a Granite City native, was one of 15 teachers to win a $10,000 award for excellence in teaching in Omaha, Neb.

Davis, a 1961 graduate of Granite City High School, works as a remedial reading teacher for three schools in Omaha.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Juanita) Libby of Granite City.

The Alice Buffet Outstanding Teacher Awards, established two years ago, are presented annually by Omaha financier Warren Buffet.

This year's recipients were chosen by a committee that reviewed more than 750 letters of recommendation for 287 teachers.

The Buffet Foundation seeks out teachers who challenge and inspire students. Teachers can be nominated by current or former students, parents, other teachers, principals and the public at large.

Opportunities abundant for Lake Of Ozarks visitors

No matter whether they choose to pitch a tent or stay at a luxury resort, visitors to Lake of the Ozarks find endless opportunities to enjoy the outdoors.

The area is home to two Missouri state parks and nearby Bennett Springs State Park. Each offers a unique combination of attractions and facilities.

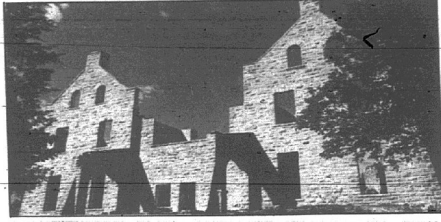

The Lake of the Ozarks State Park, the largest park in Missouri's state park system, covers more than 17,000 acres. It offers two free swimming beaches, picnic sites and shelters, boat launching facilities and campgrounds as well as horseback riding, hiking trails and boat rentals. Also inside the park is Ozark Caverns. For information on the park or for general tour information and a brochure on the caverns, call 348-2694.

Lake of the Ozarks State Park is open year-round. The caverns are open April through October.

Within the park's boundaries lies the Lee C. Fine Airport, served daily by commercial commuter flights and providing full services for private owned aircraft.

Missouri's newest state park, Ha Ha Tonka, is located five miles southwest of Camdenot, on the Nangua Arm (southernmost tip) of Lake of the Ozarks. The park covers approximately 2,400 acres. Its most significant natural and man-made features, however, are concentrated in the 750-acre area adjacent to the point where the lake and Ha Ha Tonka Spring come together. Here can be found a rich mixture of natural beauty.

Most prominent among the attractions are the ruins of Ha Ha Tonka castle. The dream of Kansas City businessman Robert McClure Snyder, the castle was originally conceived as a mansion of 60 rooms grouped on three floors around a central hall that would rise 3 1/2 stories. A stone stable, 80-foot-high water tower and nine greenhouses were to be constructed to attend the main house. Snyder did not live to see the realization of his dream. He died shortly after construction began in 1905. The castle's interior remained unfinished until Robert Snyder's son, Leroy, arranged for its completion in 1922. But in 1942, a fire gutted the castle, leaving in its wake only the stark exterior stone walls that remain today.

THE RUINS of a once-magnificent castle sit atop a cliff in Ha Ha Tonka State Park. The park encompasses about 2,400 acres on the Nangua Arm of the Lake of the Ozarks, five miles southwest of Camdenot.

The Missouri Department of Natural Resources purchased Ha Ha Tonka in 1978 for use as a state park. The castle ruins are reason enough for a visit to the park but the natural surroundings are equally impressive. Geologically, the area is an example of "karst" topography, characterized by sinks, caves, underground streams, springs and natural bridges. In one area, huge caves have collapsed to form a large, theater-like pit. Legend has it the pit once was used for Indian tribal meetings.

The park's facilities include picnic sites and trails for the handicapped. The park is open daily year-round.

In addition to the recreational opportunities offered at the area's state parks, visitors will find plenty of outdoor attractions around the lake.

Close to a dozen marinas in the area offer boats for rent. For golfers, there are nine groomed courses. Photographers will find scenic overlooks that provide magnificent views of the lake, and wanderers will discover out-of-the-way trails and swinging bridges.

Those who wish additional information about Lake of the Ozarks should call 800-325-0213.

Hints lessen business travel strain

By Cindy Stockell

Traveling for business can take its toll on your body. Here are several steps you can take to minimize "wear and tear." Try to eat as you normally do at home. Request a special meal on your flight if you are on a diet, or if you have special dietary needs.

Airlines now offer a variety of special meals, and they do not cost extra. Any of the following can be requested: bland, diabetic, fruit, Hindu, kosher, low calorie, low cholesterol/low fat, low salt, Moslem, Passover meals, seafood, vegetarian-lacto ovo and vegetarian-pure. If your family will be traveling with you, it may be helpful to know that they also offer meals for babies, toddlers and children.

If you desire a special meal, you must notify the airline in advance. The easiest way to have your travel agent note your meal preference on your travel profile. That way, your special meal request will be handled automatically each time you fly.

Non-smokers can breathe easier now that the recent federal ban on smoking is in effect. Smoking is prohibited on all flights within the United States scheduled for six hours or less in duration — including Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

For smokers who still have not kicked the habit, here are some tips from the American Heart Association to help you make it through the smokeless flight:

• Cigarette cravings are generally milder in the morning, studies indicate. Cravings appear to be most intense between noon and 10 p.m., with the peak between 7 and 8 p.m. Try to schedule your air travel plans accordingly.

• When the urge to light up is intense, take a deep breath, hold it for a second, then release it very, very slowly. Remember, urges to smoke are temporary.

• Don't skip meals. This maintains constant blood sugar levels and helps to prevent urges to smoke. Avoid sugar-laden foods and spicy items that can trigger a desire for cigarettes.

As companies expand internationally, more business travel will include international travel, which means jet lag. Fatigue, impaired concentration, slowed reflexes, irritability — these are the symptoms of the long-distance traveler's greatest nemesis. Here are a few ways to prevent or treat jet lag:

• Avoid drinking alcohol during the flight. The combination of the dry cabin air and alcohol leads to dehydration, which disrupts your body's normal daily biochemical and hormonal rhythms.

• Exercise in the morning after an eastward flight, in the evening after a westward flight. A brisk walk will do. To help keep this rule straight, remember that the sun rises in the east (morning) and sets in the west (evening).

• Eat properly. Prepare for long flights by altering your eating habits several days in advance. Eat as you normally do on the fourth and second days before a flight; eat lighter on the third and first days before a flight.

Cindy Stockell is district manager of Carlson Travel Network (formerly Ask Mr. Foster).

Chrysler worker benefits studied

By Tracy Corrington
Staff writer

WASHINGTON—Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole is reviewing her decision that would deny benefits and job retraining to 4,000 employees at Chrysler's Fenton plant, said a spokesman for the Labor Department.

"We expect a decision (around mid-July)," said Dole's spokesman, Paul Wilentz. "We expect a decision (around mid-July)." said Dole's spokesman, Paul Wilentz. "We expect a decision (around mid-July)." said Dole's spokesman, Paul Wilentz.

The United Auto Workers Union, which represents the Chrysler employees, appealed Dole's decision. The union appeal was joined by seven Missouri lawmakers, including Republican Sen. Christopher "Kit" Bond and House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-St. Louis.

In St. Louis, Dole's decision was being challenged by the Missouri House of Representatives, which is led by Rep. Jack Ruchman, R-Kirkwood, and William Clay, D-St. Louis, who wrote a letter urging her to reverse her decision.

"Our letter got their attention," Ruchman said. "A review is not a guarantee that the (Dole) will overturn the decision, but it's a start."

In St. Louis, Dole's decision was being challenged by the Missouri House of Representatives, which is led by Rep. Jack Ruchman, R-Kirkwood, and William Clay, D-St. Louis, who wrote a letter urging her to reverse her decision.

The LeBaron automobiles were caused by competition from domestic rather than foreign cars, Dole said. She denied the workers federal benefits under the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program.

The cars are made at Plant No. 1 in Fenton. The plant is scheduled to close Nov. 9.

TAA compensation is available only to workers whose jobs are lost because of overseas competition.

"There is a discrepancy between the Labor Department's numbers for imports versus the private sector numbers," said the Gephardt aide, who drafted the letter.

The Labor Department did not include poorer-selling domestic models in its study. If you do that, you'd see domestics didn't do the trick.

TAA benefits, which can include up to $155-a-week cash payments for a year, are used to supplement money workers receive from their union TAA fund.

aid is especially beneficial for workers with little seniority, who usually don't get much from the union, the spokesman said.

Yet even if Dole overturns her decision, there is no assurance that the workers will be available for the Chrysler workers.

President Bush wants to phase out TAA payments and proposed only enough money in his budget to continue TAA through Oct. 1, 1990, said Marvin Fooks, a Labor Department spokesman.

In place of the TAA program, Bush proposes that all laid-off workers collect benefits outlined in the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA).

JTPA is not as extensive as TAA in terms of retraining assistance, Gephardt's spokesman said.

Under JTPA, which serves all laid-off workers, workers receive paid benefits and job retraining for 13 weeks, and then must enroll in a job retraining program, said Fooks.

The amount of JTPA payments given to workers varies, Aaron said.

Warning on door-to-door contractors

Victims of recent storms are being warned by the Better Business Bureau to be wary of door-to-door sales individuals who follow in the wake of disaster.

People claiming to be water-proofing contractors, government inspectors, insurance adjusters or insurance adjusters should be required to produce proper identification, BBB said.

In St. Louis, BBB urged storm victims and anyone else to exercise caution before dealing with unknown contractors going door-to-door in damaged areas. Work done by such workers, the BBB warns, usually is shoddy and expensive. When problems occur, the consumer has no way to locate the person who did the work in order to voice a complaint, much less have the problem remedied.

If victims have homeowner's insurance, be sure to check the extent of coverage, as well as the possibility of federal aid.

Before doing business with a transient workman, ask his name, address and telephone number. Check his truck, which should have a name painted on the side, and his license plate to determine if it is current and in what state it was issued.

High waters also have generated numerous inquiries on basement waterproofing companies.

In some situations, consumers may inexpensively control leakage in their basements by installing a drainage system and a sump pump, which can prevent seepage occurs, by applying waterproofing compounds to the interior walls.

Consumers are reminded of the following tips:

• Compare the cost of the work to be done, the quality of the materials to be used and the cost of the financing work.

• Be sure to read and understand the contract carefully.

• Have all verbal promises in writing.

• Include start and completion dates in the contract.

Smoking restricted in public places

The Illinois Clean Indoor Air Act, which went into effect July 1, the law restricts or prohibits cigarette and cigar smoking in most public places.

The law was passed by the General Assembly last fall and signed into law by Gov. James I. Thompson.

It covers all public places except bowling alleys, places where the primary business is sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises, rooms rented for use as living quarters or hotel rooms.

"Public place" is defined by the law as "any enclosed indoor area used by the public or serving as a place of work including, but not limited to, hospitals, restaurants, retail stores, offices, commercial establishments, elevators, arenas and meeting rooms. Private enclosed offices, occupied exclusively by smokers, are exempted."

A fact sheet, "Questions and Answers: Illinois Clean Indoor Air Act July 1, 1990" is available from the American Lung Association of Illinois.

Those who wish a free copy of the publication or who want more information about the Illinois Clean Indoor Air Act should contact their local Lung Association office or the American Lung Association of Illinois in Springfield at (217) 528-3441, or write to P.O. Box 18329, Springfield, Ill. 62724-9339.

Picking up 'Arsenio' makes rating sense for KTVI

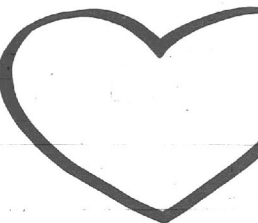

It is possible to deplore a decision which might take ABC's "Nightline" off the air in the St. Louis area but still understand the thinking behind the decision. "Nightline" is the award-winning late-night interview program, featuring Ted Koppel, which for more than a decade has shone light on news subjects only dimly seen by most of us. It currently plays at 11 p.m. Monday through Friday on KTVI-TV (Channel 2).

But Channel 2 recently has announced plans to program "Arsenio Hall" at 10:30 p.m., followed by a program called "Party Machine with Nia Peeples." Those changes, effective Dec. 31, would mean that "Nightline" would be delayed until midnight, St. Louis time, and ABC reportedly has said that the program would not be cleared for presentation by Channel 2 on that basis.

The business reasons behind the proposed changes are fairly evident. "Arsenio Hall" gets

It now lasts up to five years longer.

Americans live longer nowadays. Up to five years longer, says one study, than in 1970. One reason is that people know more about reducing their risk of heart disease. And we've helped. This year the AHA will invest more than $70 million in cardiovascular research and organize 2.7 million volunteers to go out and spread the word. great ratings at 11 p.m. as it is now presented by KTVI-TV (Channel 4). The Nielsen service reports that the program did an 8 rating in the May rating period and a 30 share. (Ratings equal a percentage of sets in use tuned to a particular program.) And even running at 11 p.m., the program gets credit from Channel 4 program director Jim Rothschild for helping to improve the station's 10 p.m. news ratings.

By contrast, Channel 2's 10 p.m. newscast and "Hard Copy" (at 10:30 p.m.) each got 5 ratings even though they were shown in presumably better time periods than "Arsenio." "Nightline" got a 3 rating.

Many of Channel 2's difficulties with ratings are self-inflicted—the result of corporate attitudes which lasted several years and only now may be changed. But the difficulties are real, and it's easy to understand why management could contemplate sacrificing "Nightline."

Since Channel 2 is a miserable third in the ratings during most of the important parts of the broadcast day, anything which can attract viewers has to look pretty good to management.

"You can't ignore ratings because you have to stay in business, and ratings are how we stay on the air," said Susan Matthews, program director for Channel 2.

Of course, explaining something is not the same thing as liking it. And, even for the people at Channel 2, canceling "Nightline" likely is not something they do with relish.

At the time of the announcement general manager Wayne Thomas said, "I am not happy with losing 'Nightline'." I want to find some way to keep it on Channel 2." But at this writing at least, ABC apparently has not relented in its stand that it will not clear the program for a midnight broadcast.

Ian MacBryde

Thomas said the station's agreement with Paramount, the syndicator of "Arsenio," stipulates that the station will program "Party Machine" immediately after "Arsenio." That takes the clock to midnight.

So what options are there? Well, one possibility is that "Nightline" could show up on another station, ABC could offer the program to "independents," stations in the market which are not affiliated with a network.

Barr, Baker, the general manager of KDLN-TV (Channel 30), when asked to speculate on the possibility that his station might be offered the program, said, "I can't comment. In any negotiation, until we make a deal or don't deal, my policy is not to speculate on program acquisitions."

However, Baker said the suggestion is not "outside the realm of possibility." And noting that the Fox Network, for which Channel 30 is an outlet, is proposing to add a new component, he said, "It ('Nightline') would just be a complement to Fox."

Still, at this writing there is informed speculation that ABC would not even begin to talk with independents until negotiations with Channel 2 break down. On the other hand, Channel 2 does not seem to have any room to maneuver to keep negotiations going.

Bob Fullstone, president of the other independent in the market, KPLR-TV (Channel 11), could not be reached for comment at this writing. But his station would not seem to be quite as likely to consider carrying "Nightline" as Channel 30.

At 10:30, when ABC would like to clear the program (that's the "live" time), Channel 11 does nicely with "Cheers," and then carries "Hunter" until midnight.

Although those programs are not etched in stone for Channel 11, they each got a 5 rating in May, which is the same rating as Channel 2's 10 p.m. newscast. Channel 30, meanwhile, programmed "Leave it to Beaver" at 10:30 (3 rating) and "The New Leave it to Beaver" at 11 p.m. (2 rating).

Asked about the possibility of discussions between ABC and other stations on "Nightline," Thomas said, "I have no knowledge of any." How would he feel if ABC released the program to another station? "I would regret it."

There are, of course, people who would not regret it. Matthews said a dozen or so people a day call in to complain about the possibility of "Nightline" going off the air. Many of them reportedly claim that Channel 2 is more concerned about ratings than quality programming. Right now that's true.
